THE GIRL WHO GOT GAY WITH DYNAMITE!

SHE great, enthralling Beauty had made her Fearless. Her Trail was Thick with Bleeding Hearts, Tear-Stained Souls and the Crimson Atoms of Blasted Careers.

In the Hall-Rooms of Boarding Houses and in Luxurious Bachelor Apartments scores of Young Men sadly Mourned the Ghosts of Dead Romances and Sighed over Her Photograph.

But—Freddie Sped Into Her Life!

He Traveled So Fast that She always thought of Him as a Composite Blur of New Cheviot Suit, Tubular Topcoat, Packard Roadster and Flying Head Waiters.

How his Motor could Roar between Roof Gardens.

At last! The Man Untameable! But She was

Foolish Enough to Try! "Keep Them Waiting—it Does Them Good," had always been Her System and Her Game. "I'll give him Ten Minutes of Dramatic Suspense!" she said on the Third Evening.

But She Misjudged her Handsome Quarry.

Freddie Often Gave Punishment, but Never Took It.

As She entered the Ritz by the Broad Street side ten minutes late, Freddie sauntered out the Walnut Entrance. An hour later She saw him—a Towering Example of Good Grooming. Another Girl, even more Marvelous than Herself, was clinging Vine-like to his London-made Perry Overcoat.

3 BIG THINGS to remember when Medicines are needed

DRUG QUALITY

The quality determines the value of any drug. We know this as well as your doctor. He knows what quality you require. We know what quality he must have, so we exert our greatest power in selecting drugs of the very highest quality.

ACCURACY OF COMPOUNDING

Knowledge and experience and care all go into the compounding of your prescriptions. Double checking methods are employed to guarantee the accuracy. No drug store in existence can will or does exert a greater influence to give you accurately compounded prescriptions.

SAFETY OF MEDICINES

Our label on any prescription package absolutely guarantees the contents to be exactly as the doctor ordered, without imitation, substitution or duplication, and without any fear of misinterpretation or disregard for your safety. It is always safer to bring your prescription to us.

Worth looking into

IT'S the most interesting study in the world.
What is? Why you, yourself.

Put yourself under the microscope. Examine yourself most searchingly to find out just what kind of work you have a natural aptitude for.

Don't leave your career to chance. Don't be satisfied with any nonchalant observation of what may seem to be your best field.

Upperclassmen who have applied this careful self-study will tell you it helped them pick out the "major" which fell in most closely with their natural fitness. The result—greater interest and greater profit through their whole college course.

Graduates will tell you that the man who turns the microscope on himself is happiest in his choice of a life-work.

It comes down to this—some patient analysis now may be the means of putting you on the right track for the rest of your life.

Thomas A. Edison and Charles P. Steinmetz in the Schenectady laboratories of the General Electric Company, where Dr. Steinmetz did his great work

Steinmetz

Emerson tells how the mass of men worry themselves into nameless graves, while now and then a great, unselfish soul forgets himself into immortality. One of the most inspiring influences in the life of a modern corporation is the selfless work of the scientists in the laboratories, which it provides for their research.

If you are interested to learn more about what electricity is doing, write for Reprint No. AR391 containing a complete set of these advertisements.

The spirit of Dr. Steinmetz kept his frail body alive. It clothed him with surpassing power; he tamed the lightning and discharged the first artificial thunderbolt.

Great honors came to him, yet he will be remembered not for what he received, but for what he gave. Humanity will share forever in the profit of his research. This is the reward of the scientist, this is enduring glory.

Slowly his arm stole around her waist. He was only a clerk, and she seemed so young, so pure, that her very goodness frightened him. It had taken about an hour before he dared to sit beside her. She was not a product of the artificial city, and about her was a wholesomeness and daintiness that he feared to touch. One kiss from her and he would have been in heaven. But no, surely she would not, she was a good girl.

Finally he ventured, "Alice for one kiss I'd buy you the world."

"Ah hell!" she replied, "I used to do that for apples up on the farm."

SPEAKING OF FIGHT

BURRO believes that a ton of wildcats should be placed in the seat of every football player's pants, before the Lehigh-Lafayette game. But the FIGHT itself is an all important sub-topic under the often forgotten subject known as "playing the game." There are many who can, and will drill the "fight" into Lehigh supporters, many many times more effectively than BURRO could ever hope to, so the old Jackass merely takes a back seat, and whispers to loyal supporters to play the game and win if possible; play the game and lose if inevitable; but above all FIGHT and PLAY THE GAME.

JUST A FEW WORDS OF THANKSGIVING

THE editor of BURRO wishes TO express his thanks in due season. First he wishes to thank the numerous contributors for the numerous contributions, they were so kind not to send in; if they are not heard from by the time that this issue comes out the only thing that they will have to be thankful for, is that they need never worry over their future on the LEHIGH BURR! it will be settled for them.

Secondly, BURRO thanks God that, owing to a few conscientious souls, he still stands on four legs, although the old Jackass is eating, and digesting a lot of literary material that would give a self-respecting billy goat the heebie-jeebies from indigestion.

And last of all, the BURRO DOES sincerely thank those few in Lehigh University who think as much of him as they should; those who rate the old Jackass as high as do other colleges, and as high as Lehigh does not.

HOT TURKEY.

'Twas noon of Thanksgiving
And all thru the house,
Not a creature was stirring,
Not even a Mouse
For the boys had all left
For homes near and far
And I was quite lonely,
And hungry, by Gar.

While visions of Hot Turkey
Ran thru my head,
I dashed to the Commons
And got—HASH instead.

She was struggling helplessly in the seething, swirling surf while the stalwart life-guard on the beach nonchantily watched the girl.

I rushed up to him and cried, "My God, man! Can't you see that poor girl is drowning?"

He spat nastily on the sand and with a harsh, scornful laugh replied, "Peddle your onions, boy, I know her and she can take care of herself. That girl is a street walker in Venice."

Spirit of 1894:—I don't see how the girls manage to get on the street cars that have such terribly high steps."

Spirit of 1924:—They merely walk up the stares the young men give them."

You may lead an ass to water, but he will not drink a bit.

South Beth: Is he takin' you home?

Salome: Not if I have anything else on, he said.

He—Want to go for a spin?

She—No, I don't think I do, old top.

SATURDAY NIGHT

Preposterous plains of pretzels,

Babbling brooks of beer,

High hill of hard boiled eggs,

With rivers of rye running near.

Gushing gullies of gin,

And wonderful wells of wine—

A mixed array of scenery—

Just a Saturday night of mine.

FATHER'S LETTER TO HIS SON

Dear Henerey:—

You writ me you got a valentine for Thermo Hotdamics or some such thing. Of course i aint as yung as i usta be, but fer you growd up stewdents to exchange valentines seems like plumb foolishness to me. And for as old a man as mr. Dean himself to send lots out like you sed is all fired crazy pastime and i dont want my son wasting his time that way. I can stand having you shout your manical head off at some men engaged in the art of wholesale assault and battery, but when yur age talk about Valentines, at Thanksgiving time especially, theres something rong somewheres.

Yur pop aint as dum as you thot he was, Henerey. I saw right off the joke about going to the dance at the Moravian Cemetory. A bunch of ded ones, eh? Ha, ha, not so bad, eh? Yur ma coodnt figger it out til i told her, then she laffed to beat all fired pumpkins. We was both to a barn dance at Si Whifflegrass's new barn t'other night and had a gol darned good time even though we both be gettin' nigh unto fifty. I saw Jake Cornhill and lots of yur old friends. Jake sez he's comin' down to see you soon and stay at yur frat.

I jest got a bill from mr. Sam Ford's Cafe fer sea food and the like. You never seemed to espeshully like sea food at home, Henerey, and you shoodn't get such an expensive habit wen it costs yur dad so much fer yur other stuff at college. I dont kno this Tom Collins, Pol Rogers and the etc., but it seams there pritty expensive companions.

Yur dewes for the Clover Club was on the same bill.? Roses is much cheaper and say pur sentiment just as good as these here Orange Blossom things that is on the bill from mr. Sam Ford Cafe.

I will cloze fer the time bean, but want you to remember, Henerey, that yur dad doesn't have one buck fer every potato bug on the 2 aker plot in Joon, so spend yur money easier. Hoping you are well and we are the same, i am,

Yur affetshunate father,

EXPLORING Whitman's PLEASURE ISLAND

Have you forgotten the way to Pleasure Island?

It's a land that children enter easily, at a moment's notice. But most grown folks have lost the chart. Some of them even doubt that there is a Pleasure Island.

Here, in this storied box of chocolates—Whitman's Pleasure Island Package—is proof that the glamor of romance still lives—it gives to the dreamer's vision "a local habitation and a name." Pleasure Island is real.

So explore this pirate's chest. Lift the tray, packed with treasures from tropic shores, and feast both eyes and palate on the contents of the money bags beneath. Surely chocolates were never so sweet and so suggestive of their rich background of history.

Pleasure Island Chocolates are sold everywhere, in nearly every neighborhood, by those selected dealers who supply Whitman's Chocolates—each one of whom receives his supplies direct from Whitman's.

"On Choosing Chocolates," "Samplers Old and New," two illustrated booklets, either, or both, of which will be sent on request.

SIDONIE the professional prom-trotter

I fell for Sidonie when I was fifteen and she was twenty-three. Now that I am twenty-one, and she is twenty-six, I love her still.

How can it be that Sidonie remains thus perennially young; sought for at every prom and house party; the delight of every hostess and guest; not of our generation and yet with us in everything? Every other debutante of her vintage is by now a more or less stayed matron. Her twin sister Coralie is the proud mother of two divorces. But Sidonie is with us still, unmarried by choice, charming and ever young. At the last house party, I asked her how she did it. She answered: "Joe, I have known you so long that I can be frank. Youth, I have always believed, is a question of information rather than of income. So I try to keep abreast of everybody else, and perhaps a lap ahead, on the theatre, sports, literature, dancing—all the pleasant things that make proms and house parties worth while. That's why I am dated up a season in advance. And it's all so simple. Any girl could do it—even as dumb a cluck as Coralie. Any man could do it—even you, dear Joe. You only have to read Vanity Fair."

If it does this for Sidonie, what wouldn't it do for you?

Vanity Fair's Assembled Wardrobe

The Smart Overcoat and Accompanying Accessories for Street Wear

The smartest overcoat for the winter season of 1924-1925 is double-breasted with wide lapels and not loose, but fairly well fitted into the figure. The day of the loose ulster type of coat with raglan sleeves is past, so far as town wear is concerned, and it is now only smart for country wear, motor-ing, or travelling. The double-breasted cut of overcoat mentioned above is known as the "guard's" coat, the original of which has a half strap at the back and falls just to the knee. With this coat, the fullness is held in by the half belt, at the back which gives quite a flare to the coat, but the new-est, and smartest version of this coat is cut a little longer and has a little less fullness, because it is made with a plain back and has no inverted pleat. A bowler hat is the correct thing with this type of town overcoat in winter, but, of course, for the man to whom a bowler is not becoming, a soft felt hat is quite as correct. Among the smart accessories for street wear this winter, striped cashmere mufflers and mocha coloured slip-on gloves are the most popular. Silk and crepe mufflers should be kept for evening wear. One of the latest novelties is a malacca stick made like a hollow shell which collapses in sections and sheathes a thin silk umbrella furled around a steel stick. Note that the coat illus-trated above has a breast pocket, and in this breast pocket, a figured foulard handkerchief should be worn in the day, and one of white linen at night. Though there are several choices, the town overcoat is smartest when made in dark blue or very dark brown chin-chilla cloth. Homespuns should be made up in overcoats for informal and country wear, while covert cloth, which is becoming very smart, is only suitable for lightweight overcoats for spring and autumn wear.

If you are interested in any ques-tion of dress or etiquette, write the "Well Dressed Man," care of the Le-high Burr, and your letter will receive prompt and careful attention. Do not fail to give accurate address.

Vanity Fair Points Out the Essential Details in a Prop-erly Cut Lounge Suit

Whether single or double-breasted, the lounge coat for town wear should be made without any flaps to the side pockets. Flaps on side pockets be-long to sport clothes in general and tweeds for country wear. The smart English tailor does not use flaps ex-cept for such purposes. Peaked lapels are very smart, but they are only essential on double-breasted coats. Many single-breasted coats are made by the smartest tailors with notched lapels, but in every case, lap-els are cut very wide. Other points about the well cut lounge coat are mod-erately narrow sleeves, medium length jacket, six buttons on the double-breasted coat and one or two on the single, no vent in the back of the coat, and most important of all, a cut which gives the proportion of broad shoulders and narrow hip-line.

If you are interested in any ques-tion of dress or etiquette, write the "Well Dressed Man," care of the Le-high Burr, and your letter will receive prompt and careful attention. Do not fail to give accurate address.
